THE FOOTBALL DINNER RESULTED IN A GLORIOUS SUCCESS

Pointed Speeches by Members of Faculty, Team and Student Body Made—"Shag" Heaped with Honours
—Everything Enjoyed by All

FITTING CLIMAX TO A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Dean Moyse—"Really this has been a momentous occasion, and I have enjoyed every minute of this most delightful function."

Dean Adams—"We have united in doing honor most appropriately to our heroes."

Dr. Yates—"I wouldn't have missed it for anything, and a better banquet is not conceivable."

John MacNaughton—"Everything went off admirably, and I am exceedingly proud of the way in which the banqueters acquitted themselves"

These are a few representative opinions on the football banquet held at Freemans on Saturday night when the champions were dined and wine, and were made the recipients of souvenirs of their athletic prowess which brought such glory on McGill.

Freeman's Banquet Hall was gaily dressed, with pennants, flags, and sparkling electrical devices, and with a splendid orchestra that atmosphere permeated the place which is so necessary for a successful dinner.

As the members of the team filed into their places, they were given a tremendous ovation, the orchestra played, "See the Conquering Heroes Come," and the McGill yell was rendered with gusto.

The menu was most elaborate, and the most Sybaritic or diners could do nothing but approve of the repast. Between courses the hall was made to ring with McGill songs—"Come fill your glasses up," "Tooley-Ooley-Ooley U" and "We're going to the Hamburg Show."

As a toast master, John MacNaughton, B.A. proved himself to be an expert, and when honor had been fittingly done to the King, Dr. Elder was called upon to propose the Alma Mater toast. This he did in imitable style. Why McGill was always called old, he did not know, perhaps it was a term of endearment parallel with his being called, "The Old Man," by his son.

McGill was not in a state of decrepitude, and he was certain that this was the most virile period ever experienced by the University. In a trip West this summer the doctor had met hundreds of McGill graduates, and the place of McGill in the educational world was national, as opposed to the provincial place attained by some of the other colleges. An enthusiast here interpolated, "McGill is an Imperial University," in which the speaker concurred.

In the conclusion of his remarkable speech, "Buck," as he is familiarly known, was cheered to the echo, and everyone sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A similar demonstration greeted Dean Moyse, and in response to Dr. Elder's toast he delighted his hearers for three quarters of an hour. Dean Moyse said he was the only one of the present deans who had actually played on the campus, although this had been done by his predecessor, Dean Bovey. In reminiscing, the Dean told of the early football days, when McGill won (Continued on page 3.)

KEEN INTEREST IN MISSION STUDY SHOWN BY THE UNDERGRADUATES OF MCGILL

Steps have been Taken to Enroll Every McGill Man as a Member of a Class for Bible or Mission Study

PETERBOROUGH CONFERENCE MADE IMPRESSION

Delegates were Very Enthusiastic and their Accounts Elicit Unusual Interest

The recent Missionary Conference held at Peterborough, Ont., has made a deep impression on our delegates. Already steps have been taken in a movement to enroll every McGill man as a member of a class for Mission or Bible study. The Students' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian College invited all McGill men to a meeting held in the David Morrice Hall on Friday evening, December 6.

The purpose of the meeting was to give all students an opportunity of hearing reports from delegates to the Peterborough Conference and to discuss plans for a systematic canvass of all McGill students with a view to enrolment for Mission and Bible study.

McGill's interest in the missionary cause was shown by the fact that about 170 men attended the meeting. The Morrice Hall was decorated for the occasion. The great McGill banner overhung the map of the world.

Clustered round McGill and round the world were banners of Diocesan, Wesleyan, Congregational and Presbyterian Colleges. The Peterborough banner was also present as a source of inspiration to the others. The decorations were in reality a tableau representing the higher education of McGill in a united endeavour to cleanse the world of its dark blots of heathenism.

Mr. W. G. A. Wilson gave a brief review of the addresses delivered by Prof. Gilmour of McMaster University. "There is such a thing as the devout life for the student," said Prof. Gilmour; and then proceeded to discuss it in its relation to the map of the world. Prayer is the essential element in the devout life and the student who neglects it loses in inspiration, power and culture.

Mr. Fairgrieve said it was the thinking men who were converted and the Peterborough Conference was a stimulus to thought. He dwelt upon the extent of Paganism in the East and the relation of the Christian Church to it. The dark coloured portions of the map represented large areas and great problems in which every McGill man ought to have a personal interest.

Mr. F. S. McKenzie stated that the Peterborough Conference was not one calculated to create excitement. Plain facts were presented to a people who desired to know what their duty was and how best they could accomplish it. The door of the East is now (Continued on page 2.)

Nice People

A story which is declared to be strictly true is told in "Public Opinion" by a high official in North Nigeria, where, though it is British, cannibalism still exists.

A native chief was found dead and the district commissioner an Englishman, acting as coroner, summoned a jury of twelve natives to hold an inquest. The jury being unable to come to a decision, the coroner locked them up and went to lunch. When he came back he found that the jury, who were also hungry, had eaten the deceased. He wrote to the Chief Commissioner: "Kindly send instructions for my next step, as the Proclamation does not seem to provide for this incident."

The Sun Life of Canada will not insure North Nigerians.

KEEN INTEREST

open to the Missionary. The whole world is drawn together, it is but a city on a large scale and its problem is the city problem greatly extended.

Mr. K. W. Dowie was able to point to definite results of the Peterborough Conference, in the formation of prayer-groups, at McGill. He reported briefly on the address of President Falconer who said: "There is great conviction in this assembly therefore there must be great power"
One of the greatest powers was that of the will and the Conference was moulding the will. The student who goes to the foreign field is developed far beyond that of the one who remains at home.

Mr. Buchanan defined a missionary call as a need, a need known, and a consciousness of the ability to meet that need. The Hindoo temples and priests are not meeting the need of India, and many McGill men can go far towards meeting it. Men who are students to-day will in a few years be leaders in the activities of the world. Let us see that they take to these activities a desire for the spread of Christian influence.

Dr. Welsh was called on for a brief address. He said the reports he heard this evening reminded him of the Great Edinburgh Conference to which he was a Canadian delegate a few years ago. It represented the whole man and all classes of men.
There were 1200 delegates representing 150 religious denominations. We can do much at McGill. We are not Godless but we are not all active members in Missionary effort. "The man who does the work," said Prof.
Welsh, "is less productive than the man who multiplies the workers."

In discussing ways and means of accomplishing the result so unanimously desired, President Donald McLeod, of the Presbyterian Students' Missionary Society said, "We are willing to merge our society with the whole in a united effort to reach every McGill man."

After some discussion the following committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the campaign to begin early in January 1913.

Mr. H. R. Griffith, Medicine,
" C. S. McKenzie, Arts,
" Donald McLeod, Theology,
" W. G. A. Wilson, Theology,
" J. A. Coote, Science,
" J. R. Buchanan, Chairman,
Missionary Committee Y.M.C.A.,

retary, Y.M.C.A.,

sionary Society of Congregational College.

SKATING AND GYM WORK PUT IN BY THE HOCKEY SQUAD

Large Turnout of About 40 Men went Through Strenuous Workout in the Gym.—Skating Indulged in at the Coliseum

Last Saturday the hockey squad had two practices. The first was held from 2-3 in the afternoon at the gym, there were nearly forty men in uniform and after an hour's strenuous basket-ball the men went down stairs and used the skipping ropes for a quarter of an hour. Bill Hughes was the only absentee of the old stand-bys, but our "Bill" was out at the Colosseum at night for the skating practice. This was a pleasant change from the gym practice, although the ice was not very good, the change of exercise served to limber up the men and prepare them for the real hard work yet to come. The "arena" will not be opening for some time yet, and if the weather still continues so changeable there is small chance of getting out on the campus rink. Last week warm spells took all the frost out of the ground which means that "Jimmy" will have to make a new bottom. If the campus rink is not in shape by Thursday, Manager E. Ballantyne
Reid is going to try to secure two hours a week at the Colosseum or the Ontario rink. All the teams across the border have been on the ice for nearly a month now, so we will need to do something.

Another full practice will be held in the gym from 7-8 on Tuesday, unless different arrangements are made, which will be made known through the columns of the "Daily."

THE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS PARADE WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Splendid and Enthusiastic Turnout by Members—Appearances Extremely Good—Photograph Taken

On Saturday afternoon, the Canadian Officers' Training Corps held its parade. The whole affair was a success from beginning to end, and had a most martial and convincing appearance. Great credit is certainly due to Commanding Officer McKergow, and his officers, and men, for the splendid showing made for such a short time of preparation.

The members first assembled in Room No. 3, the Workman Building where they, to the number of sixty, received the remainder of their kits. The Corps was then formed up and marched up to the Arts Building, where a photographer was on hand, and a picture of the whole Corps was taken. At the conclusion of this they marched back to the Workman Building and were there dismissed.

The turnout was splendid and it is certainly fine to see the men filled with enthusiasm for the thing, for there are not many around College here who are in the habit of giving up their Saturday half-holiday for anything, or anybody. As said above Commanding Officer McKergow and Captains Helmar and Cosgrave deserve great credit for the splendid form the Corps showed and the members certainly have good reasons to congratulate themselves on the showing made.

"The Daily" offers the heartiest good wishes for the success of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, and we think that McGill has every reason to be proud of it. Keep it up, you fellows. We're all proud of you!

THE FOOTBALL DINNER

championships from Montreal and Britannia teams, and pointed out Dr. Yates as one of the old-time heroes. The Dean said how the Faculty of Arts was just as interested in football as were the men in Science or Medicine, but this year we were not so well represented.

The virtues of football were then dwelt upon. The men were disciplined, and taught the virtues of self-reliance, courage and good, clean sportsmanship all at once. For his own part the Dean was glad to say that he was able at a football match to forget attendance rules and nine o'clock lectures, and remember only that he was first, last and always a McGill man. The attitude of the team in refusing to play off with the Ontario champions, was then commented upon and approved by the speaker. He said he hoped the same spirit would be maintained in the future. The football team had an academic duty to which they were faithful and the charges of their being afraid to face Argos, were unworthy. "McGill will face anything," he said. "In my mind, we are practically champions of Canada."

A remarkable attestation to the Dean's popularity then ensued, and in song he was voted a "jolly good fellow," and a "daisy just now."

Dean Adams also replied to this toast, and he was given a similar reception.

The popular Science Dean was in characteristic vein, paying witty compliments to members of the team and to the great coach. The Dean was particularly pleased with the team's decision not to play-off, expressing the earnest hope that this action would form a working precedent for other years to follow. "True co-operation between faculty and students has been attained at McGill, and we may feel proud of the spirit that dominates every member of the University community," said the Dean amidst loud plaudits.

Messages were read from the Principal, Dean Walton, and others, regretting their inability to be present and wishing every success for the banquet.

Doctor Lewis Reford, himself an old-time gridiron star at McGill, was called upon to deliver the feature toast of the evening, that is, the toast to the team.

Doctor Reford believed that McGill's lean days were a matter of history and she now had entered upon an era of greater achievement along all lines. He saw in the record of the team during the past season far more than mere success—he saw an athletic spirit of the very highest quality of sportsmanship. "On more than one occasion," said Dr. Reford, "I had McGill players protest to me that the referee was giving McGill more points than she deserved. Remaining consistent to the remarkable

THE BASKETBALL MEN SHOWED DECIDED FORM ON SATURDAY

Speedy Practice in Gymnasium Gives Great Promise of Another Championship

The basketball men have got going again and had a fast snappy work-out on Saturday afternoon in the Gym. Things certainly look good for a Championship if the boys keep up the good work. It is certainly a pity that more men do not turn out here for it is certainly obvious that there are more around than have been turning out. Also, the fact that two McGill men originated the game should interest the undergrads.

The first match comes off a week-and-a-half after Christmas, when Toronto oppose McGill here, and the men appear to realize it alright judging from the efforts that were made and the squad shown.

The passing and combination was very good, the ball going regularly down the floor to Baldwin who is nearly always good for a basket. The Defence, were not a whit lacking in their offensive work as well as their defensive work and showed some pretty nifty combination, putting in the ball like a bunch of veteran forwards.

It is unfortunate that the lights in the Gym are so poor. It is at times very hard to see and sometimes two of the arcs will flick out at the same time. However, if the Squad can parade around the basket the way they did on Saturday, they could play a star game in the dark, under the same conditions as was Moses.

There were about 15 men out among whom were the old war-horses, "Duff" Duffield, "Tinxy" Calder, George Kennedy and Baldwin, Smith, Conover, and Lavery, seem to have the goods, and Kert, DesBrisay, Upham, Willisroft, Brown, and Popham certainly prove that there is no lack of good material on hand.

Buster Reid is unfortunately still on the sick-list and it is doubtful if he will be able to play this season or not. Too bad Buster, you're needed!

SENIOR TEAM CAPTAIN CHOSEN ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

George Laing to Lead the Red and White Fourteen
Next Year

On Saturday afternoon, after the picture of the team had been taken, the choice of a captain for next year was made. George Laing was chosen and the choice was an excellent one in every way, as he is well fitted for the position.

Laing first played football at Trinity College school, Port Hope, where he held down the quarter back position for the team which won the championship. During his first year at McGill, Laing played outside wing for the seconds, but last year he starred at outside wing for the seniors.

This fall, Laing proved himself easily the finest outside wing in Canada.

VAUDEVILLE COMMITTEE ANNOUNCE SOME SURPRISING SHOW

Encouraging Reports Received from all Sides—More Actors Wanted

The Vaudeville Entertainment Committee have been working hard lately, but further request the "Daily" to ask its readers to come forward with any sort of entertainment, — playlet, skit, comedy, etc., that they know off. It is absolutely essential to get everything going as soon as possible and the Committee would certainly be glad to hear from any one.

If you haven't got any act to put on, why call around and the committee will see what they can do for you in the way of placing you in something.

There are various rumors going around about one or two acts, and the "Daily" is just bursting to tell everybody about them, but the fear of the Committee and the Council behind them, has prompted us not to say anything about them. Some acts too, believe us!

reputation gained for himself last year, Billington time and again was willing to concede points to the opposing team when there was the least element of doubt in the matter. Such a spirit speaks volume for the team, for McGill, and for the Canadian Intercollegiate League. Fighting bravely to the last ditch, Toronto Varsity played a generous and chivalrous game, showing that as of yore, the blue and white stands for pure amateurism and the genuine conception of inter-university sport. Dr. Reford went on to deal with the work of the team individually, showing how every single player had

ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE

There are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government institution designed primarily for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to officers and Cadets of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and Military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial army, lent for the purpose, and there is in addition a complete staff of professors for the civil subjects which form such an important part of the College course. Medical attendance is also provided.

Whilst the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive practical and scientific training in subjects essential to a sound modern education.

The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and, in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercise of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduates is considered by the authorities conducting the examinations for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years, in three terms of 9 months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instructional material, and all extras, is about $800.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College, takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military districts.

For full particulars regarding this examination, and for any other information, application should be made to the Secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College Kingston, Ont.

more than done his duty as part of Shag's faultless football machine. The toast-maker then came to "Shag" himself, and his expression of appreciation of this "football wizard" was the occasion for loud and prolonged outbursts of applause. Team and guests leaped to their feet, and for fully fifteen minutes, nothing could be heard but round after round of applause.

Doctor Reford believed that Mr. Shaughnessy had marked a great epoch in the history of Canadian football. "And now, fellows," said the staunch grad., in conclusion, "join with me in a hearty toast to the team, the squad, and the Coach, who have made McGill men all over the world feel a renewed interest and a genuine pride in their grand, old Alma Mater at the foot of Mount Royal." Doctor Reford's able speech was followed by yet another demonstration of enthusiasm in which the faculty representatives were conspicuous.

Capt. "Jimmy" Lee, the hero of three score Intercollegiate games, who led the McGill fourteen to the top of the heap in every sense of the team, replied for the team. "Jimmy" was immensely pleased at the treatment the team had received from McGill men of all kinds—faculty, governors, grads, undergrads, and ever co-eds. He reviewed the season briefly, dealing with some of the outstanding features, and showed how, patiently and steadily, Coach Shaughnessy had thrashed a raw squad into a first class football

The Art of Enjoyment

A NOVELETTE

A. M. 1912

I cannot quite describe my feelings as the ship backed out of the wharf at Quebec, and turning in mid stream slowly steamed on her way to Liverpool. As I leaned over the side and watched the crowd of unknown people with waving handkerchiefs I was conscious of a great and sudden desire to be home, and wondered how I should ever exist during the week of the voyage. Well! Two years is a long time—two years of work and speculation, even successful speculation in British Columbia. I was vaguely glad it had been successful; it was worth it if only to convince those people who while wishing me luck when I started, had but thinly veiled their opinion that I was much to gay a butterfly to make a real success. And yet now that it was all over I felt a vague disappointment, a consciousness of something lacking, and I hoped I had not lost the art of enjoyment during my two years complete change of life.

Oh! The Art of Enjoyment. For it is an art, and one of the highest because one of the happiest. He who has it by nature is Fortune's favorite, for like all other goodly art it is difficult of cultivation. Now although when I was at home I could hardly have been called Fortune's favorite in everything, I was her's in this; I could always enjoy myself. An hour with a pipe or book in a comfortable chair in the garden was always sufficient to keep me from absolute boredom, which as an art is the exact opposite of the art of enjoyment, and as such the most to be pitied. For indeed, boredom is sometimes cultivated as a fashionable art, and he who falls into its toils is the unhappiest of men, though he would strongly deny the allegation were it pressed upon him. Midway between boredom and enjoyment comes too much business, and it was from the reaction from this disease that I was suffering as I leaned over the rail of the vessel and watched the waves as they were pushed away from her side.

Too much business however, as I thought to myself, is a disease curable if taken in time. Otherwise it becomes a habit, and as it grows the capacity for real enjoyment lessens, till it is swallowed up in the all-demanding cry for more wealth.

team. Referring to next season, "Jimmy" was full of optimism. In announcing that George Laing had been appointed captain he felt that there could be no better assurance for the progress of the team. Commenting on President MacNaughton's announcement that Coach Shaughnessy again would be on hand to take charge of the squad, Captain Lee prophesied that next year's record would bear comparison with the success which marked the season that has just closed. "Jimmy" was glad that the team had decided against the play-off because of academic reasons, but he wished to correct any impressions that may exist that they were afraid of dirty tactics, or afraid of any team on the face of the earth. In conclusion, Captain Lee thanked the toast-maker for his many kind words and hoped that next year the captain and the team would receive such splendid support as he had encountered on all hands.

"Sink" McEvenue appropriately dubbed the "terror" of the team for his lightning trick plays, rose to propose the toast to Coach Frank Shaughnessy. "Sink" recalled early impression of "Shag" and told of how he had inspired the whole team with that indomitable and aggressive spirit, which was the chief factor in their up-hill fight. "Sink" pointed out that the opening game of the season was played after only four practices and that under other circumstances the issue probably would be different.

The speaker went on to express gratification at the support of the whole university public, which certainly boded well for the future. "Sink's" tremendous popularity was attested by the almost incessant applause which attended his remarks.

"As long as McGill wants me, I'll be here," said Shag in reply to the toast. The Coach had nothing too good to say for McGill. "During my stay here," he said, "I have found friendships and associations which are of far more value than mere pecuniary considerations and I want to take occasion to say that McGill men are the finest bunch of fellows in the world. I had to drive the squad

By this time the boat was well on its way down the river, and I was roused from my reverie by the strident tones of a bugle blown three feet away from my ear, and which as I learned was bidding the passengers change for dinner. To its peremptory call I obeyed.

As I was making my way into the dining saloon that evening I caught sight of Her. Yes! It is well to state the fact boldly and without reservation. Now although to most people the sight of Maxwell Blakeley would be pleasing to say the least, it would not cause them to blush vividly and hurry to their seat in a semi-panic as I was doing. But it was different with me.

Three years had passed since I had met Maxwell at a house party at which the Blakeleys who were Americans were guests, and at that time we had been very good friends, so good in fact that a stern mother, having higher views for her daughter than a younger son of an ancient country family with little or no fortune to recommend him, had suddenly brought their visit to a close on the plea of a previous engagement, while two or three days later I had sorrowfully gone back to complete my last term at college and ponder over the hardness of fate. Then had come Canada and the search for fortune, during which the process of forgetting was almost completed, and now by the irony of fate all the past was surging back with double force. Even the hurrying stewards and the incessant chatter of the dining saloon could not make me forget that last evening, and the sudden shock the next day on hearing that she had gone.

"I think we should have a nice voyage," said the man next me, and for the rest of the dinner my meditations were at an end.

She had not seen me come in, I was sure of that, and so after dinner I found myself standing near the stairs scheming about the best way to meet her. I must have stood for fully five minutes without coming to any definite conclusion, and was just about to move away, when right behind me I heard the silken rustle of skirts. I turned slowly. It was she. Affecting great surprise I smiled and bowed.

from the first. I said a lot of hard things but the fellows took them well and showed the best possible spirit. When my sons grow up I confidently trust that they will attend McGill. This is a wonderful college and deserves everything it gets," concluded the Coach in the midst of an ear-splitting pandemonium of applause, in honor of the hero of the occasion. In proposing the toast to the grads, Mr. H. Dixon paid a great tribute to the loyal manner in which all the old boys stood behind the team and the squad right from the first. He believed that the grads were more interested in the Alma Mater than ever before and that their support was a big factor in the success of the team.

Doctor Turner replied for the Grads. Calling to mind scenes of the old days when McGill worked under conditions far more difficult than nowadays, the ex-player, said that in all his experience in football he never at any time had witnessed such a perfect football machine as was turned out this year by the great Shag, who had established his name permanently on the honour roll of Old McGill.

At suitable intervals during the banquet, presentations were made to the team in the form of magnificent individual signet rings to the players and a beautiful loving cup to the Coach.

Dr. Yates formally handed the Intercollegiate Cup, of which he is the donor, to the custody of the Students Council. He regretted the press publicity which was given the misunderstanding of the Toronto Executive as to the Cup disposal, but he distinctly stated that the cup was for perpetual competition, and was accompanied by no heed of gift. After making some exceedingly happy remarks, the donor called upon Dean Moyse to present for him to the team the pewter mugs which he had donated. He was sorry the cup had not been forwarded earlier as he had intended having miniatures made from it.

Dr. Tees presented the signet rings which were donated by the Council, and Jimmy Lee did the honours in

JOS. MAYERS, QUEBEC BRIDGE COMMISSIONER SPEAKS TO SCIENCE MEN

On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the lecture theatre of the Chemistry Building, the Science Undergraduates Society will hold its regular meeting.

The speaker of the evening will be

Mr. Joseph Mayers, of the Quebec Bridge Commission, who will explain the fine points of "Regulated Competition vs Socialism."

Mr. Mayers is a widely-known authority on the subject, and this should certainly be of interest to all Science men. We are now in this great and young country of Canada, entering in on a period in which the knowledge of a subject, such as the above will be of great help to engineers and professional men. Competition is becoming keener and keener every day and the question of how to meet the complex problems that arise, is a grave one indeed and we are absolutely sure that any student who attends this meeting will not be sorry he went.

REMEMBER, Wednesday, in the Chemistry Building at 8 o'clock.
